NEWSLETTER WINTER 2022

Edito

---

We are happy to start the year by tacking stock of interesting developments in our collaborative projects.

The beginning of the year is by essence reflective: we compile our annual reports, making sense of the past, while looking ahead and setting new objectives, for ourselves, as well as for our joint work.

All our collaborative projects are grappling with the articulation of impact and learning, a complex task in the context of supporting systems change and field building. Yet it is key to communicate what our collaboratives are about and the impact they are having. This year EPIM makes its annual report public. We hope you will enjoy reading about its achievements and, as importantly, its challenges and lessons. Read the EPIM freshly released annual report 2021.
